

Electronic Devices Policy

1. Every instructor/lecturer at KKU/KKUIC has the authority to restrict or prohibit the use of personal electronic devices in his or her classroom, lab, or any other instructional setting. It is expected that instructors will communicate, both verbally and in writing via course syllabi, their policies regarding student use of electronic devices. It is also incumbent upon instructors to make reasonable accommodations for students with disabilities through the Student Disability Services office.
2. While the technologies may change, examples of such technology include, but are not limited to, computer hardware and software, cellular phones, personal digital assistants (PDA's), programmable calculators, and portable recording devices of any kind (audio or visual).
3. While students may, with instructor approval, use personal electronic devices in the classroom to take notes or do work that is relevant to the class, the following activities are considered disruptive to student learning and are generally prohibited when the class is in session unless specifically authorized by the instructor:
 - 3.1 using personal electronic devices to engage in any activity that violates KKU/KKUIC policies and procedures

 - 3.3 using personal electronic devices to cheat or plagiarize
 - 3.4 communicating with others via e-mail, instant or text messaging during class time using cell phone, computer, or other electronic device, unless expressed permission is given by the instructor
 - 3.5 engaging in any research, work, or Internet "surfing" not authorized by the instructor
 - 3.6 recording or transmitting via audio or visual technology any lecture, tutorial, written material or other type of class material without first obtaining the instructor's consent
 - 3.7 duplicating, storing or transmitting material that violates copyright law
