

This book serves as a helpful resource for academics, researchers, and higher education students to develop their information literacy competencies. The information literacy competencies include determining the nature and extent of information needed, accessing needed information effectively and efficiently, evaluating information and its sources critically and incorporating selected information into their knowledge base system, using information efficiently to accomplish a specific purpose, understanding the issues surrounding the use of information, and using information ethically and legally.

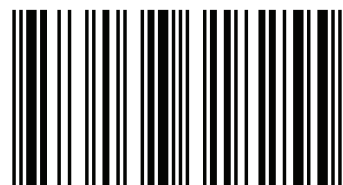

Keow Ngang Tang

Information Literacy

Graduated as a PhD holder from University of Putra Malaysia since December, 2003. She has been positioned as lecturer in 2004, senior lecturer in 2008 and associate professor in 2010 from University Science of Malaysia and associate professor in 2016 from Khon Kaen University, Thailand.

978-613-8-31825-5

